SAVAGE MAN. The Untermed Races—Man as He Emerges from the Condition of An Animal—Curions Marringe Customs. One of the most interesting new books of the day is "The Origin of Orvillisation and the Primitive Condition of Man," by Sir John Lubbock. (D. Appleton & Co.) The author is a destinguashed member of Parliament, Yice Piessident of the English Ethnological Society, and the author of "Prehistoric Times" and the author of marriage and of relationship, their religious, insignance, moral character and isses. He has tound, in studying the lower races of men as the y-new exist on the globe, that they humarate in many ways, though not in all, the could loo and habits of our own ancestors in a period long gone by, and also explain many customs of civilised men, which evidently and even some ideas which are modeled in our minds as fossils are immediate in the soil.

But though our information with reference to the social and moral condition of the lower races of man is very considerable, it is certainly very far from being salisfactory either in extent or securacy. Travelers naturally find it far easier to describe the houses, boats, food, dreas, weapons, and implements of surgage than to understand the motives by which be is influenced. Many things appear natural and almost self-evident to him which produce a very different impression on us. Crics of "We'll pay your flees," "We'll be eyou through with this," and "Don't budge a step" encouraged the parties in their attempt. We have heard is freely stated by the negroes, since the sfair, that if it took the last dollar this had the courts should decide in their aver.

The different roads in the city are not united in their treatment of colored passengers. On the Market-sireet line only negro women are permitted to ride in the cars; these are given seats insiste, but negro men are not permitted ever upon the platform. There is not room, however, upon any of the cars on this road for whits or black passengers to ride upon the platform. There is noon the platform, they being barely large enough for the driver. On most of the other lines, including the Walmistreet road, nearro men are allowed to ride upon the platform—colored women being given ceats inside upon them all—while in the new "excursion cars," upon the Main and Fourth-siteet roads, special rear seats are set apart for the negroes, main and female.

A good deal of excitement existed among the colored population of the city last night in regard to this staff, but the several sentiment secured to be to test the matter by law. We underested that a fund has been raised among them for this purpose. We awart the issue of ever nis before further comment.

An exceedingly set affray, which may result in the death of a young man of most estimable parentage, occurred in the supper part of the city at 11 o'clock last night, it appears than Mr. Jas. Frazee, son of Dr. James B. Frazee, with several triends, was in the eartblishment of Anins Gook, or Madison, believes Hancock and Clay. While there some words passed between himself and william While, a peanut dealer in the Nash-Yille dept., when White publish onto a platel and jointed it at Frazee. Nothing more came of the mater while in the house, but a short time after. Frazee, meeting white on the corner of Hancock and Walnut, said to him, "Were you not the man who drew a pissol on me just no a?" Whi e made no an-war, but, drawing his jistol gafm and putting it sgainst the body of young Frazee, freed and then face.
